

Alamance Foundation has new local investment manager

Effective Oct. 1, 2003, The Alamance Foundation will have a new investment manager located right in its hometown. The Foundation's Board of Directors has reached an agreement with Burlington-based Trust Company of the South to provide investment management services for the foundation's funds. Up to now, the Alamance Foundation's Trust Company of the South will provide local investment management for our funds, while preserving the same investment strategy, fee structure and oversight that has always been provided by our foundation through the Community Foundation of Greater Greensboro."

The Alamance Foundation is a long-standing affiliate of the Community Foundation, which assumes its operational costs and provides it with administrative support and development assistance.
